QUEEN MAB.

TODAY is going to be some day for the "kiddies" who attend the matinee at the Empress, for the wee specks of humanity that are on the bill, Queen Mab and Casper Weis, intend to hold a public reception on the stage. Queen Mab is anxious to see and shake hands with every lady and every child of Salt Lake. The little lady also wants to give each one a souvenir picture of herself, as she expects to retire from the glare of the footlights upon the completion ner four of the Shillvan and Considine circuit. With Queen Mab is Casper Weis, who is amelier of the little folks. Those two Lillipatians or midgets are the smallest performers in the world, are very highly educated and possess every faculty, being able to speak fluently in a number of languages. Queen Mab has traveled very extensively, having visited practically every cits of prominence in the civilized world. She is generally known as "The Human Doll and this tille properly describes her. Queen Mab was on intimate terms with the late Queen Victoria and President Oon Paul Kruger, who presented her with a gold medial. She has on her list of friends the president of France, the exar of Russia and scores of other nilers throughout the world. Manager Sutton has arranged to personally look after each little child that comes to the matinee. The doors will be opened carrier to avoid any crush or lam. ## WIZARD OF PIANO IS COMING MONDAY

Leopold Godowsky Combines Brilliancy, Skill and Genius, Say Critics.

Under date of November 28, 1912, the New York Herald says.

Leopoid Godowsky, Polish pianist, gave his first recital here in a dozen years vesterday afternoon in Carnegle halt. He had been heard here once this season in concert with orchestra, but yesterday was his first real opportunity to prove his artistic value, and he gave an exhibition of plane playing that will be long remembered.

So far as technical difficulties are remembered.

So far as technical difficulties are concerned, these seem not to exist at all for Mr. Godowsky. His runs exceed the speed limit, and they are of amazing clarity, whether they are simple scales, runs in thirds or in octaves. They simply puri from his floger tips. And he has a remarkable trick of accenting notes that introduce novel effects and yet do not upset the musicianship of his phrasing.

upset the musicianship of his phrasing.

He began with Schumann's "Symphonic Studies," beautifully played,
and followed by a Brahms capriccio and two of Mendelssohn's songs without words. Then came a Chopin group, of which the most notable was the stirring dramatic interpretation of the D minor prejude. Six Paganini-Liszt etudes were next played and the closing number was the planist's own version of themes from Straiss's "Fledermaus"—better known here as "The Merry Countess," which is a recent comic opera revival. His original handling of the melodies of this composition was Godowsky will be heard in recital at the First M. E. church Monday evening next under the auspices of several prominent musicians. The Daynes-Beebe Music company and the Utah Conservaof Music are handling the sale of

HALLIE MANNING.

BEGINNING with the matinee today the BEGINNING with the matinee today the Garrick will begin its sixth big successful week of high class musical comedy as presented by the Allen Curtis Frolics company. The new piece is one which teems with fun, music and pretty girls and is called "Papa's Baby." The past productions by the company at the Garrick have been pretentious ones, but the new offering, opening today, promises to even eclipse any former musical comedies, which is saying a great deal. The fun of the piece will be carefully guarded by "Böddle" Duncan, who, with Lew Dunbar, has caused more laughs than any two men appearing locally in many months.

The costumes this week are gorgeous and varied and will be a pleasing spectacle. The musical numbers will be many and will include some of the popular hits of the day rendered by the individual members of the company, and the chorus of "honey girls." The latter, to say the least, are pretty and shapely, and thus far has established a reputation of being dashing and sprightly. They sing and dance because they love toe. This is a feature which speaks well for the girls as well as for Allen Curtis, who has them in charge. The matinee will begin this afternoon at 2:30 o clock.

songs and funny sayings, and with the numerous musical numbers there promises to be something doing every minute of the time from the rise of the curtain until its final drop. This week the Garrick's funmakers, Buddle Duncan and Lew Dunbar, each will assume move responsibility, and each will also have the best opportunity yet afforded to prove themselves real comedians. Lew Dunbar will be seen in the role of Rudoiph Heine, who wants a wife, while little Buddle will appear as Julius Kletz, who has a wife. Betwixt the two it may be confidently expected that the piece will afford many laughs.

The musical numbers was be special features. The first will be the opening clorus by "The Honey Giris," to be followed by "Hello, Hello, Salt Lake Town," by Paisley Noon, assisted by the chorus. "It's Time Enough to Getthe Girl" will be sung by Hallie Manning and Bud Duncan, "Ragging the Baby to Sleep" will be rendered by Hallie Manning and chorus will render "Mammy's Shuffin' Dance," "She Had a Lot of Thluss

A good vaudeville bill is one of the most pleasing lines of entertainment that any one could care for, but, on the other hand, if the bill offered is not up to the standard anticipated, the thoatergoers know it quickly and the business at that particular house will see a material falling off. This week, however, the Empress has one of the big ones and the public is flocking to the popular vaudeville house nightly. Today is ladies and children matinee day at the Empress, and with the two Lilliputians midgets holding a public reception on the stage after the matinee and giving those who come and greet them a pleasant handshake and a souvenir picture of themselves, it is a safe bet that Queen Mab and Casper Weis will have a bigger lot of children to greet.

Frances Stansbury won the honors in the chorus girls' contests in the Garrick last night. The others of the "Honey Girls" displayed skill and originality in their acts, but in each contest there was only one favorite. With her hair parted on one side and wearing pink pajamas, Miss Stansbury looked the part when she sang "Take Me Back to Babyland," in a sweet, childish voice. She easily distanced all of her competitors.

The second prize was won by Amy Jetome and Babe Leftoy in each contest, Wearing sallor boy suits of white and blue, they sang a song and gave a pretty dance. Their part was one requiring skill and application, and the audience insisted on an encore.

Teris Loring, with a well-delivered 'Dago' recitation, was given each of the third prizes. She wore a red shirt and blue overalls, has an abundance of dark hair and initiated the Italian accent well.

The performances of "The Fortune Hunter" at the Colonial this afternoon and tonight will close the engagement of that comedy at the popular stock house, and seat reservations already taken up insure a capacity audience for both shows, according to Manager Ketcham. For the coming week, the engagement opening Sunday night, Mr. Kelly will present "The Nigger" for the first time here in stock. The drama is by Edward Sheldon and its production elsewhere over the country has created by Edward Sheldon and its production eisewhere over the country has created no end of discussion. Its theme deals with the race problem in the south in a nest sensutional manner. Mr. Kelly will play the part of Philip Morrow, who, after being elected governor of a south-ern state, finds that he is a negro, his father's mother having been an octoroon.

don festivals must have an end some line. An American manager came to London and obtained Burford Hampden's signature to a contract to appear in the states as Tylty in "The Blue Bird."
"Youth must be served," says the old alage. Surely it is in this such, fragile-looking English lad's case. His parents, bir, and Mrs. Charles Hampden, gave uppromising careers on the operetta stage of London—they are both singers—to assomption, its father in real life, is also his papa. Daddy Tri, in the play Mrs. Hampden, a tiny girlish woman, "goes on" as one of the Hours, Stars and Elappinesses.
